Dr. Ruth Imrie

Dr. Ruth Imrie, medical director of Cleveland Clinic Solon, has been a Clinic staff member since 1978. Her special interests include adolescent medicine, behavioral-developmental issues, school difficulties and dermatology. A graduate of Belfast's Queen's University, she has had postgraduate studies at hospitals there and specialty training at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children. She is a fellow of both the Royal College of Physicians of London and the Society of Adolescent Medicine. Dr. Imrie's extensive teaching experience has included appointments not only at the Cleveland Clinic but at Pennsylvania State and Case Western Reserve universities. Her many professional associations and memberships include the North American Society of Pediatric and Adolescent Gynecology, American College of Physician Executives, and the CWRU Center for Adolescent Health. In 1993 she was a member of the National Delegation of Adolescent Health Care Providers to Russia and Estonia.

Community service also occupies a great deal of Dr. Imrie's time and talent. For Valley Presbyterian Church, where she has served two terms as elder, she is involved with its Mobile Health Fair Ministry, having organized and led outreach projects in Cawood, Kentucky, and Benton Harbor, Michigan.
